SYLVIE COURVOISIER AND MARK FELDMAN (Tonight) As a pianist and composer Ms. Courvoisier pursues intricacy and rigor; Mr. Feldman, a violinist, favors plangent intensity. They have worked well as a duo, perhaps most notably on a recent album of John Zorn compositions. At 8:30 p.m., Roulette at Location One, 20 Greene Street, at Grand Street, SoHo, (212) 219-8242, roulette.org; $15; students, $10; members, free (Chinen)

JOEL HARRISON (Tomorrow) Mr. Harrison, a versatile guitarist and prolific composer, presents “The Wheel,” a suite of five movements for a nine-piece ensemble. In addition to an improvising string quartet spearheaded by the violinists Mark Feldman and Christian Howes, his aggregate will feature sharp improvisers like the trumpeter Ralph Alessi and the alto saxophonist David Binney. At 8:30 p.m., Roulette at Location One, 20 Greene Street, at Grand Street, SoHo, (212) 219-8242, roulette.org; $15; students, $10; members, free. (Chinen)

JIM STALEY, IKUE MORI AND JOHN ZORN (Sunday) Raucous but rigorous free improvisation serves as a common language among Mr. Staley, on trombone, Mr. Zorn, on saxophone, and Ms. Mori, on electronics and percussion. At 8:30 p.m., Roulette at Location One, 20 Greene Street, at Grand Street, SoHo, (212) 219-8242, roulette.org; $15; students, $10; members, free. (Chinen)
